No matter how you add it up, Doug Weaver, as Athletic Director is the middle man. He, in the final analysis, is responsible for seeing that SIU's athletics, alumni, supporters and staff uphold the regulations of the Missouri Valley Conference and NCAA. ## SIU 'n the Valley . . .

On September 19, 1974, Southern Illinois University realized a long-time goal when we accepted an invitation to join the prestigious Missouri Valley Conference.

For the Salukis, it climaxed an effort which started back in the 1960's when Southern Illinois withdrew from the old Interstate Conference and began upgrading its programs to the standards of the NCAA major college level.

SIU began official conference competition in May at the league's outdoor track, baseball, golf and tennis championship meets. Basketball, cross country, swimming and indoor track follow next year with league play in football to be scheduled in the very near future.

Established in 1906, the Valley is the oldest conference with membership west of the Mississippi River. Fellow members are Drake, New Mexico State, Bradley, Louisville, West Texas State, Wichita State and the University of Tulsa. The Salukis have vivid rivalries with different teams in all sports.

Tulsa has gained much national publicity in football with two Heisman Trophy runner-ups in the last ten years, two bowl appearances and this season with an 8-3 club which soundly thrashed bowl-bound Houston.

Wichita State and Drake have proud track heritages which are borne out in the two classic events that they host each year, the Drake Relays and the U.S. Track and Field Federation national championships at Wichita.

Tulsa is consistently ranked in the top twenty in baseball and the Golden Hurricane has advanced to the College World Series twice in five years. In addition, the Salukis seem to have their own stumbling block in Bradley which has handed SIU defeats in the past two seasons.

Valley tennis is outstanding with West Texas State, Tulsa and Southern Illinois consistently ranked among the nation's top twenty. New Mexico State has qualified in the top 16 for the NCAA championships, 15 times in 16 years.

But it's basketball where the Valley stands tallest. The conference has won four national championships, a fact exceeded only by the Pacific Eight (UCLA). Past or present Valley teams have won seven National Invitational Tournament titles, including the Salukis in 1967.

The league's reputation was helped in the mid-60's by a Sports Illustrated feature called the league "Death Valley" for good basketball teams. Indeed, the conference had a 75 per cent winning percentage against non-conference opposition this year (at press time) and, internally, no Valley team has gone undefeated in league play since 1948. A fact no other league can match.

That's fine, but what does it mean for the Salukis?

First, it gives Saluki teams something to shoot for. The conference championship is a valuable goal, while individual titles and all-conference mention are honors which haven't been available to Southern Illinois athletes.

Second, football and basketball scheduling no longer is a problem. The Salukis will play every other Valley team once a year in football (including every other year at renovated McAndrew Stadium, which is scheduled to be completed by the beginning of the season this year) and twice every season, home and away, in basketball. This is a definite aid since a quality schedule of major college opponents has been a difficult task for Basketball Coach Paul Lambert and Assistant Athletic Director Bill Brown in football to attain.

Third, there's media and television exposure. The Salukis will benefit from additional regional and national media coverage of games merely because they are in a conference.

The Valley also has an attractive basketball television package which means the Salukis will be appearing on regional TV at least twice a year in the future. In football, the Salukis will begin sharing in the lucrative television revenue in 1976 when the new NCAA football television contract goes into effect.

Traditional rivalries are almost instantly established. Many Saluki fans remember the 1967 series in basketball between Louisville and Southern Illinois. Thrilling rivalries such as this will be common place.

"All these items add up to recruiting aids which my staff and I are anxiously ready to latch onto. We respect the Valley, and, within their guidelines, we are preparing ourselves to compete in the conference," Athletic Director Doug Weaver said.

That's where you, the alumni and friends of the Saluki athletic program fit into the picture. Recruiting is constantly underway to recruit the quality athlete who can help make the Salukis winners in the Missouri Valley Conference as well as the NCAA.

The coaching staff is always seeking help in two important categories: securing summer jobs and coaches' recruiting travel.

"Many of our alumni and friends are asking us all the time, 'How can I help?' Here are two areas in which we need assistance," Weaver said.

"The prospect of a summer job at the same wages other students receive is a key recruiting weapon. Prospective athletes are looking for jobs from mid-May to mid-August in two areas, their major fields and heavy labor such as construction or work on delivery trucks.

"Our coaches need contacts for use of an automobile or simply a lift from the airport to the high school or prospective student-athlete's home. This saves us a great deal of time and expense in eliminating renting a car or locating a taxicab.

"If you can help us in any of these vital areas, please fill out the information form.

"A key factor in alumni recruitment help is a basic understanding of NCAA and Valley rules in recruiting. On several occasions, institutions have been placed on probation through actions of well-meaning, but misinformed alumni and supporters," Weaver added.

"Before we get into the 'do's and don'ts' let me explain some of the terms. A high school student becomes a 'prospective' student-athlete if a member of the athletic staff or other representative of its athletic interests (Alumni or supporters) provides transportation for the high school student to visit the campus, entertains a high school student in any way on the campus, initiates or arranges telephone contact with a prospective student-athlete or a member of his family for the purpose of recruitment, visits or entertains a prospective student or a member of his family for the purpose of recruitment or entertains the member of the family of a prospective student-athlete on his campus."

Now, here is a partial and condensed statement of permissible recruitment:

It is permissible for the alumni organization to entertain prospects at luncheons, teas or dinners at which prospective students (athletes and nonathletes) of that immediate locale are guests.

A prospect may receive one expense paid visit to the SIU campus for a period not to exceed 48 hours. Only actual round trip transportation by direct route between the student's home (or junior college, prep school or high in which he is enrolled) and the SIU campus, may be paid. Such a visit may not occur until after the prospect begins classes for his senior year in high school. That means if you have a neighbor who is a high school senior and is good in basketball and you want to drive him down to Carbondale to see the Salukis play, you can. The trip, however, will count as the one paid visit to the campus the prospect is permitted to make—ever.

SIU may reimburse a prospect for actual and necessary transportation expenses incurred in traveling to visit the campus in the automobile of the prospect or his family even though his relatives or friends accompany him on the trip.

SIU may house and entertain a prospect or his parents during the one paid campus visit in the Carbondale community only if on-campus entertainment and facilities are not available and only to a scale comparable to that of normal student life.

A member of the SIU athletic staff or athletic representative may visit a prospect, his relatives or friends at any location for recruitment purposes. However, they shall not expend any funds for entertainment to the prospect, his relatives or friends.

A prospect may visit the SIU campus as many times as he desires at his own expense.

SIU may pay the actual cost of the room and board expenses incurred by a prospect in traveling between his home and campus on the one official expense paid visit.

An athletic staff member or athletic representative may describe the member institution's grant-in-aid program and recommend a prospect for such aid. It should be understood, however, that only SIU's regular financial aid authority can actually award aid.

The list of don'ts is longer. These are some, not all, of the actions that are prohibited.

It is not permissible for SIU to offer to give a prospect, his relatives or friends financial aid or equivalent inducements except as permitted by the NCAA, Missouri Valley Conference or SIU. Any financial aid other than that administered by SIU's regular scholarships award authority and the promise of financial aid for a period beyond one year or for a post graduate education are not permitted.

This includes cash, the promise of employment after college graduation; special discounts on loans, professional and personal services, purchases or charges; regular or periodic use of an automobile without (or at a reduced) charge; transportation to or from a summer job or to any site other than the institution's campus on an official visit; signing or cosigning a note for a loan; the loan or gift of money or other tangible items; guarantees of bond; purchase of items or services from a prospect or his family at inflated prices; transportation to enroll.

A member of the SIU athletic staff or an athletic representative may not contact a prospect at his school without the permission of the institution's executive officer. Contacting him at any athletic competition before he has finished participation and been released, is also prohibited.

It is not permissible to publicize or arrange publicity of a prospect's visit to the campus.

No agency, group of individuals or organization outside SIU may administer or expend funds for recruiting prospects in any way, including the transportation and entertainment of, in the giving of gifts or services, to a prospect, his relatives or friends. It is also illegal for two or more persons to pool resources for the recruitment of a prospect.

Neither company funds, nor a company plane, can be used to transport a prospect to visit a campus or elsewhere.

SIU or an athletic representative may not pay or arrange the payment of transportation costs incurred by relatives or friends of a prospect to visit the SIU campus or any other location. This includes transporting the relatives or friends of a prospect to visit the campus or elsewhere in your vehicle.

SIU or its athletic representatives may not reimburse the coach of a prospect for expenses incurred in transporting a prospect to visit the campus.

Neither SIU nor an athletic representative may provide free admission to its away-from-home athletic contests to prospects, their friends, or relatives.

"All of the rules and regulations of the NCAA and Missouri Valley Conference must be adhered to for the Salukis to continue to compete for championships on the conference and national level . . . an opportunity we've been working for a long time," Weaver emphasized.

Orescanin Acquitted

Danilo Orescanin, former SIU vice president and campus treasurer, was found not guilty and acquitted of charges of tampering with public records after a day-and-a-half of testimony in a Jackson County Circuit Court bench trial.

The verdict followed testimony by David R. Derge, who was SIU President when irregularities in liquor purchases were discovered.

During the trial, Thomas Lee Leffler, former SIU security chief and former co-defendant with Orescanin, testified as a prosecution witness. Charges against Leffler were dropped prior to the trial.

At the conclusion of the non-jury trial the presiding judge, Peyton Kunce, made his decision saying, "There has been proof of a lot of liquor in a lot of places, but as far as proof that the defendant did knowingly alter or conceal public records, I find none."

Following the acquittal, Orescanin, who resigned in February of 1974 from his position of vice president and campus treasurer, said he plans to continue at SIU as a professor in administrative sciences. Leffler has accepted a post as special assistant to the President at the SIU-Edwardsville campus. Virgil F. Trummer has succeeded Leffler as the Carbondale campus director of Security Police.

Document Approved

Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees unanimously approved a new governance document for the system during its mid-December meeting. This document establishes new guidelines on executive officer relationships. It provides for presidents of the campuses at Carbondale and Edwardsville to function "with full autonomy in all spheres excepting those reserved to the board." The guidelines change the title of the chief of board staff to general secretary of the SIU system. They also redefine the relationship of the position to the presidents.

The new document replaces the previous January, 1974 document.

Under its provisions, James M. Brown remains as chairman of the system council. The position no longer includes board policy interpretive authority.

In matters which may have system concern, the presidents are to coordinate their efforts with each other and with the general secretary through the system council.

Each of the two campus presidents will represent his campus in its relationship to external agencies.

Parking Deck Okayed

SIU Board of Trustees approved construction of a portable parking deck at its December meeting. Resolution to award contracts for the two-tiered, 351-space structure passed with Student Trustee Matthew Rich casting the only dissenting vote.

The garage will be located between the north end of SIU's McAndrew Stadium football field and the 900-foot Faner Hall humanities-social sciences building.

T. Richard Mager, vice-president for Development and Services, said the open deck, ramp-type structure will be partly below grade and will be screened by greenery.

Included in the project is expansion of a lot northwest of the stadium to 157 cars and lighting improvements on it. Mager said the improvements—along with an existing 32-car lot at Anthony Hall—will mean 540 parking spaces will be available to the 822 faculty-staff members who work in the immediate campus core area.

The low construction bids on the garage and nearby surface lot improvements total $807,308. This money will come from the University's parking revenue fund, built up from the sale of parking decals.

The job is expected to be completed in a year.

Resignation Accepted

Dr. Keith Leasure resigned from his post as vice-president for academic affairs and provost to return to teaching and research in his position as professor of plant and soil science.

President Warren W. Brandt has accepted Leasure's resignation but has asked that he remain in his present role until a replacement can be found. "During my first few months here it will be of considerable assistance to have the benefit of Dr. Leasure's knowledge and experience available to me," Brandt said.

Leasure, 54, former chairman of the plant industries department, became assistant provost in 1972. In June, 1973, he was appointed to his present position.

Commenting on Leasure's resignation, Brandt referred to him as a person who was "loyal to the University" during a "period of considerable stress."

Dr. Willis E. Malone has been appointed to serve as chairman of a search committee consisting of 12 members. The twelve, who are yet to be appointed, will, according to Brandt, be representative of the various levels of faculty, students and staff in the University.

Vocational Education

With grants totaling approximately $115,000, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is currently providing advanced leadership training in vocational and occupational education for 19 persons in three separate programs, all supported directly or indirectly through the national Education Professional Development Act.

This year for the first time SIU has received approval as a training center under the EPDA program of the U.S. Office of Education to train EPDA Fellows selected in nationwide competition. Only 28 institutions throughout the country are authorized for such training, according to Wayne S. Ramp, director of the SIU programs.

Seven of the 1974-75 Fellows have chosen SIU for their training, which provides individually tailored internship studies and practical experience. For this project the USOE has provided SIU with a direct EPDA $60,000 grant.

Also for the first time, the Illinois Division of Vocational and Technical Education has allocated $20,000 from its EPDA contract with USOE to provide two internships in the DVTE office in Springfield for two SIU-C graduate students in occupational education. The two interns spend 30 hours per week in the Springfield office in addition to their University classes in Carbondale.

DVTE continues to support SIU-C's performance-based competency program in occupational education administration, now in its third year. Under this program, also financed with EPDA funds, 10 graduate students, teachers in area schools, are attending classes on the campus and at the same time spending two hours per day on internships in their own schools.

The approval of SIU-C as a recognized EPDA training center places it with such schools as the University of Illinois, Rutgers University, University of California at Los Angeles, Ohio State, Michigan State and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Ramp said.

Cooperative Buying

Less costly computer hardware and services for Southern Illinois University is expected as a result of a tieup between SIU and a newly-set up purchasing division in the statewide Illinois Educational Consortium for Computer Services.

The IECCS—representing all Illinois' state university systems—is able to make mass purchases of hardware and equipment at a savings to individual members, according to SIU chairman of the systems council James Brown. One example would be volume bidding on computer terminals needed by several consortium members. Another would be long term contractual arrangements for leasing computers from manufacturers. The IECCS would act as a second party, leasing hardware to individual members as third parties, with resultant rental savings, according to Brown.

The group, which SIU joined in 1972, was formed so that state schools could share computer facilities. The cooperative purchasing agreement was okayed October 10 by SIU's trustees.

Library Receives Gifts

Numerous gifts were donated to the Morris Library at Southern Illinois University during the last few months. Among them were the papers of the late Robert W. Teeter of Berwyn, a 1904 graduate of SIU. During his lifetime, Teeter made several contributions to the University, one of which was the first drip coffee pot, invented by his father.

Included in the gift from Teeter's family is his original score of the Loyalty Song, scrapbooks, old photographs, clippings relating to the University and Carbondale, and an early alumni directory.

One of the first recipients of the Alumni Achievement Award, Teeter was an inspiration to all Alumni for his service to the University.

Kenneth W. Duckett, University archivist, also reports receiving a file of correspondence with the late Paul Powell, former legislator and later secretary of state, from Curtis Small, editor and manager of the Harrisburg Daily Register, who was close to Powell.

Original photographs of Powell with many other state and national figures are included with the letters.

Litchfield commercial photographer, William Morton, has donated a collection of 93 glass plate photographic negatives of Litchfield. These plates span the period 1903-16. Duckett said the library has made safety negatives and prints of the plates and plans to set up an exhibit, probably in the spring.

Files relating to plastics research were presented by Alfred A. Meyer of Herrin, retired industrial chemist. Meyer, a native of Germany, came to Southern Illinois after World War II and became involved with a number of companies as a researcher and inventor in the field of plastics. His patented discoveries were used by boating and refrigerator manufacturers, among others.

Two recently retired professors, J. Murray Lee and Paul R. Wendt, have presented their professional books to the Library, and a collection of books on the theater came from the library of the late Sherwin Abrams, associate professor of theater.

Alumni and friends interested in making gifts to the University, may write the SIU Foundation Office or call 618-453-2217.

Five Positions Open

The SIU Alumni Association is requesting recommendations for nominees for five positions on its board of directors. The positions will become vacant this spring when the designated terms expire.

After names have been received, selection of candidates will be in the hands of a nominating committee which will present its slate to the Legislative Council on Alumni Day, May 17. Members of that committee are: Larry Jacober '62, M.S. '65, Dr. William O'Brien '47, and Dr. Keith Sanders '61, M.S. '62.

Board terms expire this year for: Paul Schoen '67, Fred Huff ex '62, Roger Gray '64, Madge Presley ex '42, and Paul Gill '59, M.S. '61. Gill is the only one of the group whose term is not renewable.

The Alumni Association

Suggestions for the board of directors should be sent to Robert Odaniell, Association executive director, at the Alumni Office in Carbondale by Feb. 15. All suggestions will be forwarded to the nominating committee.

Nominations Sought

Nominations are now open for Alumni Achievement Award recipients to be honored next Alumni Day, May 17. The deadline for nominations is Feb. 15.

Don't put it off. Write in today and explain why a "special" fellow Alumnus should be honored. His or her outstanding achievements may be of a professional nature or for service to the University, the Alumni Association or both.

All SIU graduates and former students are eligible for the award except present faculty members, members of the board of trustees and the current Alumni Association president.

Any member may make nominations. Send names and supporting material to Mr. Odaniell in the Alumni Office to be forwarded to the committee . . . those deserving should get the credit.

'74 Alumni Delegates

Members of the Class of 1974 have selected, by ballot, Paul Piche of La-Grange Park as their representative to the Alumni Association Legislative Council. Piche majored in economics and graduated with a degree in business. Named to Who's Who among students in American colleges and universities, he received the Dean Rehn award for service to both the society for the advancement of management and the college of business and administration.

Alternate delegates to the council are Richard L. Guebert, Jr. of Modoc and Gary W. Hanebrink of Westville.

New Alumni Benefits

Due to the new benefits recently approved, your Alumni membership card opens many doors.

Upon presentation of your membership card, you have the same privileges as an undergrad, at the Morris Library. The staff there will issue a courtesy library card to each Alumnus with dates corresponding to those listed on his or her membership card.

With your membership card, you are entitled to use the Campus Lake facilities, the beach and rent a boat and fishing gear at student rates.

Your card will enable you to check out handball and tennis equipment and to use the corresponding courts, provided the courts are scheduled in advance.

Each "card carrying member" is also encouraged to make use of the reduction on all tickets to the Saluki theater, as you can in purchasing football and basketball season tickets.

If you like to bowl or play billiards, you can—in the Student Center at student rates.

So carry your card, it's your passport back to student life at SIU.

Alumni Day Scheduled

Though Alumni Day is traditionally held in early June, due to the University changing from a quarter system to semesters, it will be held on May 17 in 1975. As usual the event will be held in conjunction with commencement. All graduates in classes ending in 5 or 0 and 1974 will be welcomed back for reunions. Other activities will include an annual business meeting and an alumni banquet. Further details will appear in forthcoming issues. Mark your calendar now and plan to attend.

DEADLINE SPORTS

THE SHOW'S ON THE ROAD for Southern Illinois' basketball team...and they left with a bang. The Salukis claimed an 87-67 victory over defending Big Ten champion Michigan before entering a stretch where nine of their next ten games were away.

"This stretch is an important one for our team," said Saluki Coach Paul Lambert. "We are steadily making progress, but wins on the road are a true test of a team's strength."

The Salukis won four of their first five games, largely behind the play of all-American center Joe Meriweather, who ranks among the nation's top scorers, rebounders and field goal shooters. Meriweather was named the Missouri Valley Conference Player of the Week, the opening week of the season.

"Joe played an outstanding game against Michigan." Lambert continued, "His 19 rebounds against Michigan are an amazing total when you consider Michigan's post man played far from the basket and Joe still was able to get 13 defensive rebounds despite being out of position.

"He is able to score points because his teammates are doing a good job getting the ball to him," Lambert concluded.

Meriweather, whose stats are 25.6 points per game, 12.8 rebounds per contest, 15 blocked shots, 67 per cent from the field and 75 per cent from the foul line, isn't the whole show for the Salukis. There is Mike Glenn getting his share of accolades.

The 6-3 sophomore guard from Rome, Ga., hit his first 19 free throws this year and led the Valley with a perfect

1.000 free shot mark. Glenn's leadership has been a big factor as well, since he is called on to single-handedly whip opponents' presses.

Meriweather and Glenn have been joined in the starting lineup by 6-7 sophomore Corky Abrams whose four field goals against Michigan helped seal the Wolverines' doom late in the game; 6-4 guard Tim Ricci of West Frankfort and 6-5 junior college transfer Mack Turner of Champaign Central.

Southern Illinois will join Mississippi State, Santa Clara and Indiana State at Terre Haute for the Hall of Fame Classic, Dec. 27-28. The Salukis play at Illinois State, Jan. 4; at Evansville, Jan. 8; and at St. Louis, Jan. 11.

In between, the Salukis have one home game against Samford on Jan. 2.

WITH A 2-2 DUAL RECORD and the Illinois Intercollegiates under their belts, the Southern Illinois wrestlers will take a short holiday break and then get back in action Jan. 4 for the major portion of their schedule.

The grapplers opened Nov. 30 in their annual tune-up for the dual season with the Illinois Intercollegiates in Champaign. Fred Hoef at 150 and Clyde Ruffin at 142 topped the Saluki entries, as both lost in overtime periods. Jim Horvath at 158, Tim Maday at 177, and freshman 134 pounder Dale Eggert claimed fourths in this 21 team event. Ruffin had the only pin of this complex event when he stuck Jeff Parrott of Black Hawk Junior College in 3:02.

Following the Illinois Inter-collegiates, the team embarked on an Eastern trip with the first stop being a dual with the Navy in Annapolis, Md. The Salukis gave the Middies all they could handle and led 14-11 with only two matches left, but they lost both to let Navy slip away with a 17-14 win.

Next, it was on to the Lehigh Quad in Bethlehem, Pa., where Coach Linn Long's charges were rudely greeted with a 35-3 trashing in the opening dual by host Lehigh. However, the Salukis picked themselves up off the deck and came back the next day with a 19-18 decision over Maryland and a 21-14 triumph over small college power East Stroudsburg State to place second in the meet, finishing the trip at 2-2.

Joe Goldsmith recorded the second pin of the year for the Salukis, as he polished off his 118-pound opponent from East Stroudsburg.

Northern Illinois will be Southern's first opponent following the holiday break. Then it's on to Tennessee-Martin, Illinois, Illinois State, Western Illinois, Marquette, and the Wisconsin Quad in Milwaukee before the home opener against Indiana, Jan. 25.

"Everybody got whipped a couple of times," said Long reflecting on the Eastern trip. "But if the score stays tight and you whip a few, you've done a good job."

SIU SWIMMING TEAM EMBARKED on their longest road trip ever when the Salukis left for Ecuador, Dec. 26.

The Salukis will compete in the Ecuadorian swimming championships as well as other meets while giving training demonstrations for Ecuadorian coaches and swimmers.

"The trip will be a great learning experience and a chance to use a long course pool in a warm climate," said Saluki Coach Bob Steele, "many teams spend as much money going to Florida and renting pools."

Steele explained that using a pool two-and-a-half times larger than Pulliam was essential in training over break.

"All major teams head for long course pools in warm climates," said Steele. "There are only two such pools in Illinois."

Steele says the Salukis plan to swim about four hours a day but will set aside time to visit the sights. They will be staying in the homes of Ecuadorian swimmers.

As guests of the Ecuadorian Swimming Federation, the Salukis are proud to be the first American University team to participate in the event.

The Salukis appear to be in good shape with a third place finish in the Big Ten Conference western division relays, and titles in the Saluki Invitational and Illinois State Relays.

"Right now, our results are faster than many of our dual opponents," said Steele, "however, great strides are made when teams work out over Christmas break without the academic load."

Steele says that despite early season success, he holds mixed emotions toward the improvement of the team.

"Dave Swenson, Paul Schultz, and others have started to consistently reach their previous best times," said Steele. "Some, however, have not satisfied their goals. Then again, going faster is always the name of the game."

It took most of last season before any Salukis qualified for the NCAA finals but former Olympian Jorge Delgado swam a 1:53.2 in the 200 butterfly which was good enough for the national event.

Coach Steele looks forward to January when the distance corps gets relief from the addition of Pat Miles and Jon Stewert. Miles, a former Saluki, returns following two years in the service, while Stewert returned to his home in Tacoma, Wash. to recuperate from mononucleosis.

Due to the semester schedule initiated last year, classes will be completed by May 16, at which time students will be available for summer employment.

Your Help Is Needed!

Summer jobs, both part-time and full-time, are becoming more and more important to an ever-increasing number of SIU students. Scholarship and loan funds simply haven't kept pace with student needs in recent years. For many students, summer presents an opportunity to get out and earn more money to finance an education through the rest of the year. At the same time, a summer job can be an educational experience in itself. A full roster of summer jobs in the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office could spell opportunity for a great many SIU students. Summer work can play a great part in career goals and individual maturity.

Information on jobs in federal and state agencies is available, but we need information on job openings in local government agencies and private businesses. We believe that you in the Alumni Association, recognizing that a primary objective of your organization is to help students, can be of assistance. You may not be in a position yourself to offer summer employment, but if you know someone who is, please let us know. We'll be grateful, and so will a lot of students! Please write or fill out the form below and send today to:
